Dear Admissions Committee,

It is a great pleasure to recommend Sameeksha Shetty for admission to your master's program. She is one of the most exceptional students and interns I have encountered in my 6 years of employment. I taught Sameeksha in 2022 in the web development domain and supervised her internship at Contriver in programming and development. Throughout her collaboration with us, Sameeksha consistently impressed me with her problem-solving abilities, resilience, and technical acumen.

Sameeksha's internship at Contriver began with designing and developing over 20 interactive web designs. She initially faced challenges in optimizing these web designs for cross-device usability. However, rather than being deterred, she embraced the feedback as an opportunity to enhance her skills. She quickly adopted advanced web design techniques to ensure compatibility across devices, demonstrating her quick learning and troubleshooting skills.

In her next major task, Sameeksha developed a facial recognition tool to detect the age and gender of users. Initially, she encountered obstacles with model accuracy. Instead of being discouraged, she applied data augmentation techniques to improve the model and fine-tuned its accuracy, delivering impactful results. Her determination to consistently find solutions and her strong comprehension of fundamentals were truly commendable.
In addition to her technical accomplishments, Sameeksha's personal strengths are equally impressive. Her cheerful nature, teamwork, and openness to feedback set her apart from her peers. She actively collaborated with others, shared best industry practices, and readily helped her peers understand complex concepts. Her quick responses to questions during training and her proactive approach earned her the title of "Best Intern of the Batch."

Sameeksha's desire to explore and learn will take her far ahead in life. Her endless curiosity, combined with her resilience and willingness to take risks, leads me to believe she will excel in your university environment. I have no doubt about her ability to adapt, thrive academically, and contribute meaningfully to your institution.

Sameeksha has my highest recommendation for admission to your esteemed university. Please don't hesitate to contact me at sanjay@contriver.co.in if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Sanjay.B
